ABOUT THE PROGRAM

Why CSAT?

It is common for students to take the CSAT paper for granted and allocate very little time for its preparation, but this can sometimes backfire. In the Civil Services Prelims Examination, a good number of students who comfortably clear the cut off score for the General Studies paper have been known to fail because they are unable to achieve the qualifying marks in the CSAT paper. Therefore, it is important to actively prepare for the CSAT paper.

With ten years of experience in competitive examinations, we at ForumIAS have seen many students fall victim to the problems of (a) taking a subject for granted and (b) not working on known weak areas.

We believe that (a) in UPSC CSE, taking any area for granted is risky and (b) the CSAT paper must be actively prepared for, especially if you have not solved aptitude subjects in a while. Additionally, the nature of aptitude tests is such that practice is key to success, but having a teacher to guide you can greatly reduce the time it takes to prepare and increase your chances of being selected for the Mains exam. This is especially true if you have a known problem with the CSAT paper.

Why ForumIAS?

- ForumIAS has a track record of developing innovative approaches to help students prepare for exams
- In 2016, the Mains Guidance Program was launched, resulting in a success rate of 86% for students receiving their first interview call
- The Current Affairs and CGP Classroom program was introduced in 2017, producing ranks 5, 7, 10, 13, 27, and 35 in its first year.
- In 2018, the Select Focus Group for Prelims was started, helping hundreds of students prepare for the Mains exam.
- By 2019, every third candidate selected in the Civil Services Examination was an enrolled ForumIAS Academy student.
- In 2020, the CSAT for Prelims course was introduced due to the increasing difficulty of the CSAT paper and the belief that good preparation can make a difference.
- The CSAT for Prelims course at ForumIAS is known for its high-quality instruction, comprehensive curriculum, practice materials, flexibility, and Mentorship support for students.
