Your Pathway to Preparedness Equipped for success.

PSIR Optional Foundation at ForumIAS is not just about the basics; it lifts you from fundamentals to the most advanced level of conceptual understanding. In 100 well-structured lectures of 150 – 180 minutes each, the entire syllabus is covered comprehensively.

Our Faculty- Amit Pratap Singh

With Nearly a decade of teaching and mentoring UPSC aspirants, Amit Pratap Singh specialises in Political Science and International Relations. He is known for building strong conceptual clarity, rigorous academic class discussions and exceptional command over the dynamics of PSIR Optional.

In his classes, concepts are explored in depth and connected with PYQs and the latest current affairs, supported by authoritative think-tank sources and scholarly literature on Political Science.

Class Flow + Pedagogy

Each lecture opens with the first key focus point in that day's handout, moves through the remaining topics, and ends with a 15 – 20 - minute answer-writing practice on previous-year questions, followed by a live discussion of the model answer. Daily practice plus 10 scheduled tests (six sectional, four full-length) provide ample writing experience.

Concept explanation first. Foundational topics are explained with clarity.

Rigorous discussion next. Academic discussions solidify every concept.

Detailed handouts for every lecture. These eliminate time-wasting dictation, letting class hours focus on explanation and discussion. Crafted by the faculty, the handouts are so comprehensive that no other study material is required.

#You spend class time probing concepts, not copying dictation.

Why PSIR Optional Foundation Course at ForumIAS stands apart

Complete coverage in five months – 100 tightly designed lectures with academically rich handouts.

Free PSIR Dynamics Course access for over a year, up to the Mains
– Our premium current-affairs module of weekly PSIR Current Affairs classes that keeps the dynamic portion of the syllabus updated even after the foundation course ends.

Faculty Message

PSIR is a treasure trove of knowledge. Aristotle called Political Science the “Master Science” because it teaches the craft of state-building and the pursuit of eudaimonia —human flourishing. I value it for another reason too: it lets us understand everything around us—polity, post-independence Indian history, foreign policy, international relations, global finance, environmental negotiations, and even ethics. Do full justice to this subject. I’ll see you on weekdays for the static syllabus and every weekend in PSIR Dynamics Course, where we connect current affairs to theories and hypotheses. Together, we’ll give the subject the respect it deserves and make this journey truly rewarding.
