What Not to Expect from the Mentor?

A mentor in MGP INFINITY is an expert in UPSC strategy, answer writing, and exam orientation, not a classroom teacher. The mentor will not teach subjects line-by-line or dictate notes. The role of the mentor is to guide, evaluate, and correct your preparation strategy, not replace self-study.

While mentors may provide limited emotional support during stressful phases, they are not psychological counsellors and will not offer personal or private life advice. Their guidance is strictly limited to the UPSC syllabus, preparation strategy, and exam-related decision-making.

Aspirants are expected to seek professional guidance only and take responsibility for their own effort and discipline. The mentor's role is to enable better preparation, not to handhold every academic or personal decision.

What are the Expectations from the Students?

MGP INFINITY is a mentorship-based self-study program, and students are expected to show discipline, commitment, and consistency.

Aspirants must be honest and realistic about the time they can dedicate, as effective planning depends on accurate inputs.

Students are expected to focus on syllabus completion and execution, rather than worrying about irrelevant issues. Assignments and targets must be completed within timelines, which requires developing strong time-management skills.

Trust in the mentor's guidance is essential. Students are expected to follow the strategy discussed, maintain consistency, and actively participate in the preparation process to make mentorship effective.

What Is the Difference Between MGP and MGP INFINITY (∞)? Which One Should You Choose?

MGP is a mentor-supported Mains test series, primarily focused on answer writing practice and evaluation after each test. It follows a largely standardized structure suitable for aspirants who only need improvement in Mains answers.

MGP INFINITY, on the other hand, is a comprehensive Prelims-cum-Mains guidance program. Here, the mentor designs and monitors the entire preparation plan, including daily targets, assignments, and strategy. Aspirants looking for end-to-end guidance, structure, and accountability should choose MGP INFINITY.

What Is the Difference Between the GS Foundation Program and MGP INFINITY (∞)?

The GS Foundation Program is a classroom-based course where content and notes are primarily dictated by faculty. It is ideal for beginners who need structured teaching and note-making support.

MGP INFINITY is a mentorship-driven program where students prepare through self-study, guided by a mentor. Notes are made by the aspirant using curated resources and mentor guidance. In short, GSFP focuses on teaching, while MGP INFINITY focuses on guided execution and accountability.

How to proceed with the program?

- The candidate will be required to enroll by paying the full fee if he wants to go ahead with the program.
- After payment confirmation, the MGP INFINITY(∞) Team will reach out to the candidate and set up a call with the Mentor who will discuss the preparation level to gauge and determine the starting point for the candidate. (We all have different starting points, depending on our previous efforts for the exam and schooling/ graduation background).
- A broad Plan will be made by the Mentor for the candidate, followed by 8-day/12-day targets which the candidate must follow. Candidates will be required to complete the assignment and submit it to the program coordinator by doing self-study and research/sources recommended by the Mentor.
- To set the accountability, the program coordinator will follow up with the student and set up the Assessment & Guidance session (AGS) for the candidate.
